A ROUND OF TALK.

An Autumn Luxury.

(From the Washington star)

Life seems a whole lot sweeter
When election day draws near.
It is neater an' completer—
Leastways, that's how things appear.
Nearly every kind o' blessin'
You could wish for come in reach
When the candidate's addressin'
Us constituents in a speech.

The apples soft'ly blushin'
Seems to smile an' welbome him.
An' the breeze comes up a-rushin';
So's to shake 'em off the limb.
An' when he starts a-sayin'
How he likes every one,
It is jes' like music playin'
An' we're sorry when it's done.

You kin talk 'about oysters growin'
Plump an' fine down in the bay;
And about the reed birds showin'
Greater sweetness every day.
An' the other joys that beckon
To contentment in the fall;
But the candidate I reckon,
Is the one that beats them all.

HARD TIMES—It seems a little unreasonable to cry hard times just now after such a bounteous crop year and when everything seems to be moving ahead in a spirit of progress, there is however a general complaint of hard times as regards ready money. Collections are exceedingly slow and local merchants and it a difficults matter to collect any old accounts. One reason for this apperent stingency in the money market is the fact that farmers have not yet realized on their tobacco crop which is the main dependence for money, nor have they marketed their fat hogs or other staple products of the farm. Another thing that keeps the farmer hard up is that he sees so many opportunities for investment. Farms have been changing hands at a rapid rate during the past few years and when a farmer finds an opening to invest in more land with a prospect of selling later at an advance the temptation is too great and as a consequense his little accounts are put off to a more convenien season. He also sees and takes advantage of many opportunities to buy a bunch of hogs, or some cattle to feed his corn to, all of which will bring in good returns, but it will take a little time and he thinks the creditors can afford to wait.

YOUNG SMOKERS—Springfield we venture to say can produce more juvenile slaves to the tobacco habit than any other town of its size in Kentucky or elsewhere for the mtter of that. Boys in this town seem to "take to" tobacco as naturally as a young duck to water and about as early in life One may stand on the streets any morning and see any number of school boys, mere chiluren, on their way to school with a pipe in their mouth that for size and strength far excels the books which they carry under their arms, and from which they are supposed to get the inspiration and information which will plot them through lifes journey. One can immagine the condition of a childs brain for study after pulling at an old pipe or indulging in the insidious influence of the the deadly cigarette. All of the efforts of the finest instructors in the finest graded schools in the world we imagine would have little effect on a young brain thus poisoned. A few years ago when the writer first took charge of the destines of the News-Leader in Springfield we had employed about the office in that useful and needful capacity the printers "devil" a boy scarce tall enough to reach the composing tables. He was of tender years, but we will say in passing that his age was about the only thing tender about him, the balance of his make up being decidedly tough. We soon discovered that this child chewed tobacco with a vigor worthy of any full grown man. We remonstrated with the young hopeful and endeavored to point out to him the evil results on his phisical and mental development that tobacco habit would certainly have. He listened to our advice patiently respectfully, but at the close of our lecture sadly shook his head and said; "Iis no use, I have been at it too long to give it up now." From which remark we were led to infer that the little fellow had begun the habit as soon as he left the cradle. One cann t help but conclude that the parents are more or less to blame for this growing evil among the children for they do not take the proper steps to prevent it

COAL—The coal situation in Springfield and in other interior towns in Kentucky as well is becoming alarming for the poor consumer and it looks as if the railroads and coal mine owners have combined and concoct d a scheme to rob the people. The local dealers are of course at the mercy of the mine owners and the railroads and the reasons given by them for the high prices are that there is a car shortage and the miners have advanced prices in order to meet the general running expences. So long as the present mild weather continues the situation will not be so alarming, but if a sudden cold snap should swoop down on us, which we may expect at any time the situation may become alarming and these may be suffering in consequence.

ENCOURAGED—Tobacco growers in this county feeling encouraged over the prospects of good pricet for their product this year and are already counting on two and three cents advance over last year's prices, although the crop this year is generally of an inferror quality. Very few crops have been sold so far and the market is not established, but the growers are "talking" higher figures and some insist that they will hold out until they get their prices. Several crops have been sold at ten cents, but the best are holding out for higher figures. Reports from other points in the Burley district indicate an advance in the market and local growers are inclind to await developments rather than put their tobacco on the market at present prices. The weather for the past few weeks has been favorable for stripping and a large buik of the crops will soon be ready for the market

Shot in Hand.

Mr. W B. Mouser, of Calvary, a well-know revenu officer, as shot in the right hand, Sunday evening about 6 o'clock by Mr. J D. Bobbit, who conducts the hotel by that name near the depot. The examining trial will not be held until tomorrow, and the facts in the case are not known, but it is understood that the troucle arose over an overcoat which Mr. Monser thought ha had left at the hotel, a few days previous. Mr. Bobbit ejected him from his house and a few minutes thereafter on going to the door, found Mr. Mouser on the pavement in front of his hotel, with a pistol in his hand. Mr. Bobbit says that Mr. Mouser attempted to shoot, when he himself fired, the ball striking Mr, Mouser in the hand, and at the same time shattering the latter's pistol. Mr. Mouser's wound was dressed and he left next morning for New Hope, where he is assigned at the distillery as store keeper —Enterprise.

Shooting at Mitchelsburg.

In afight at Mitchelsburg Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock Jerry Matherly, a young man about 25 years of age, received a bullet wound in the breast and side from the pistol of William Gillispie, says the Danville Advocate. The ball struck the breast bone, glanced and came out under the right arm. The physicians say the wounded man will recover unless complications set in. The origin of the difficulty could not be learned. Gillspie was drinking and in an ugly mood and eye witnesses say he was responsible for the affray. Deputy Sheriff Harbison arrested Gillispie and brought him to Danville, where he was placed in the custody of the jailer to awaithis examinz trial

Who Pays the Advertising Bills.

An unknown exchange asks: "Did you ever think about it? Who pays for the advertising of merchants and other business men? Not the advertiser, for the cost is returned to him twofold in increased profits Not the purchaser, for he buys cheaper from advertiser and has a better assortment and fresher goods to select from. Who, then, really pays the advertising bills? The non advertiser, of course. A just proportion of the money he loses by his lack of initiative and enterprise finds way eventually to the printer, to advance the cause of education and the interests of the community Who pays for the advertising which attracts the people of this town to other towns? The home merchant not only loses that trade, but in that loss pays for the other fellow's advertising Isn't it plain? The "store keeper" is a relic of the past, the merchant is an active being of to day."—Etown News.

Postal Scheme.

To turn over the postal service of the United States to a private corporation under strict public control is the remarkable proposal made to the Postal Commission, says a Washington dispatch

W. D Boyce, of Chicage, publisher, man of big affairs and several times a millionaire, made the proposition on behalf of himself and associates, whom he didnot name, to take over the postoffice business and run it on business principle.

The proposal includs agreement immediately to cut postage rates in half. There could be no deficit under such an arrangement for the Government to meet, because the corporation would have to make ends meet.

Mr. Boyce went to the postal corporation under a postal commission which shall be the regulating and supervising agency of the Government.

He proposes to pay Uncle Sam rental for all post office quarters occupied in public buildings, and over against this he desingn to charge the Government regular rates for all service performed for it. These Government services he now estimates at $75,000,000 annually. At half the present rates this would be cut to $12,500,000.

The business methods to postoffice [illegible] would result in immense economies in transportations, Mr, Boyce figures that the expenditure for railroad hauling would be cut from $50,000,000 to about one half that sum.

Meets Peculiar Accident.

Mr. J. P. Dohoney, of Denison Texas, an uncle of Mr. G. A. Dohoney of this city, badly injured an already injured hand Saturday morning in an unusual manner. Mr Dohoney is connected with a railroad campany in Texas, and a few months ago while in the discharge of his duties had his right hand so badly mashed that he lost part of the member. Last week he left the hospital and on his way to Adair county to visit relatives he stopped over in this city have his [illegible] re-dressed. Shortly after this had been done, he attempted to light a cigar and ignited the bandage which was saturated with an inflammable acid. The flames were soon smothed, but not until he had been painfully burned. A physician was called and a few hours later Mr. Dohoney was able to leave on a train for Adair county.

Mr. Dohoney was formerly in the revenue service in this District having served under Hon. Ben Johnsen when he was collector, some ten or twelve years ago.—Lebanon Enterprise.

The Book Authors.

Robert Burton, the author of "The Anatomy of Melancholy," may claim this honor: His book has stood the test of time as few books have. Professor Saintsbury writes that "all the readers of English literature have loved him." Lamb praises "the fantastic great old man" and, indeed, borrowed from him many a choice phrase. Among other remarkable "one book authors" may be mentioned Sir Thomas Malory, whose famous collection of Arthurian romances is one of the imperishable treasures of the English tongue; Richard Hooker, whose "Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity" is still a standard book on the constitution of the Church of England, and Gilbert White, whose immortal "Natural History of Selbourne" is still read with pleasure and profit.

A German View of Our Diet.

Die Woche of Berlin tells its readers "what Americans eat," taking as a type the average New York business man. Hot cakes, quick lunch dishes, like Welsh rabbit, ice cream, grape fruit, oyster cocktails, pork and beans and many other purely American dishes and ice water are referred to as obligatethe promoters. "All this," says he writes, "the American eats with relish. They are the dishes of the city and of the country. He balks at only four things—frankfurter sausages, amerkraut, buttermilk and limburger cheese. These he calls 'Dutch foods.'"

THURSDAY, DEC. 6, 1906

In view of the fact that certain gang politicians are waging a war on the Hon. C. C. McChord of this place, chairman of the Kentucky Railroad Commission in an endeavor to defeat him for another term it must be especially gratifying to him to learn of the many high endorsements he receives from various sources.

The latest endorsement comes from the Lumber Men's Club of Louisville which at a meeting passed resolutions commending Mr. McChord and his associates for their work in behalf of the lumber interest; securing an equitable rate on shipment from Louisville. The resolutions in regard to Mr. McChord says:

"First—That we recognize in the Hon. C. C. McChord a faithful, untiring and incorruptible public official who by years of intelligent work and study has equipped himself to be, and is now one of the ablest Railroad Commissioners in the United States, with the ability and courage to do justice to both shippers and carriers.

"Second—That as a club we disclaim any political allegiance with any party, our membership being composed of members of various political parties, but we take this action because we deem the matter one of business rather than politics, feeling that it is the duty not alone of all shippers, but also of all public spirited citizens who desire the development of our State's great natural resources to give to Mr. McChord their loyal and active support.

That was a disgraceful occurence at Princeton, Ky., last week when a mob of 500 masked men invaded the town in the dead hour of night and applied the torch which reducee to ashes several valuable plants belonging to the tobacco trust. The outrage is thought to be the culmination of the feeling which has been stirred up among the tobacco growers and the tobacco buyers who have been generally classed as the "trust." In this day and age of enlightenment that such acts of lawlessness should be possible in a civilized community seems almost incomprehensible, yet that men's passion, can be aroused to commit such outrages has been proven all too often of late. The authorities are trying to investigate the affair, but are naturally handicapped in their efforts of bringing to light the guilty parties, for as is the case with all mobs, successful investigations are difficult. More's the pity. If a few of the ring leaders in such outrages could feel the weight of the law it would be better for all concerned.

Campbell makes the following report of sales held last week: On Friday for Mrs. Nannie Leachman, a good crowd in attendance and everything sold high; and on Saturday in Boyle county for Mc Gray although it was raining all day yet had good crowd and everything sold high He also reports Harrodsburg court Monday was well attended and about 100 cattle on the market, but buyers, and sellers a long way apart, plenty of plug horses on the market at low prices, a good demand for milch cows and only two or three on the market.

McElroy & Wharton, the real estate dealers made an important sale of property last week when they sold to Mr. William N. Keeling, of Tatham Springs, the farm adjoining town of Mr. Isaac Curry at the handsome price of $85 per acre. This place contains about 108 acres and adjoins the fair grounds. Mr. Curry sold the farm two years ago to St. Catherine when it was contemplated to build the new St. Catherine's school on it. The price paid then was $5000. The St. Catharine people decided not to utilize the property for their building and gave Mr. Curry $1000 to take the property back. Mr. Curry has since erected a nice dwelling on the property, but still the price represents a substantial advance. Mr. Keeling the new owner is one of the most substantial citizens of the county and has been owner of the tunnel mill at Tatham Springs for several years.

U. D. C. Entertainment.

A large audience appeared at the Opera House on last Thursday evening to witness the entertainment given under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The program was made up of recitations and character impersonations by Miss Lewis, of Louisville, interspersed with musical selections by home talent. The audience appeared to be well pleased with the performance. Miss Lewis is quite a versatile performer essaying heavy Shakespearian roles and negro dialect and light comedy with equal ease. An especially pleasing feature of the evening was the music as rendered by several of the young folks of the town who had kindly given their services to help a charitable cause. Miss Mary Haydon delighted the audience with her solos for which she possesses a remarkably sweet voice. The singing of the quartette composed of Misses Haydon and Ray and Messrs. Colvin and Waters made a hit and received several encores by the audience, and Miss Haydon and Mr. Waters did a little musical sketch as a duet, which was quite clever and well received. Mrs. Woodson Moss who possesses a clear musical voice of sweet tone sang a solo which was greatly appreciated by the audience. The piano selections given by Miss Lizzie Waters and Miss Emogene Henderson were well rendered and pleasing.

The society realized quite a neat little sum which will be used for charity among Confederate veterans

NEW SHORT STORIES

Kept Uncle Joe Busy.

"Edgar county certainly gave Speaker Cannon a warm time," said L. White Busby, secretary to the Danville statesman, in describing Uncle Joe's swing around his own district during the recent campaign. "At Paris the Republicans gave Mr. Cannon a dinner in the leading hotel, and when the spread was at its height fire broke out in the kitchen and compelled the company to beat a hasty retreat. The speaker made his escape, holding a napkin in one hand and a wedge of pumpkin pie in the other.

"After the evening meeting we went to bed at the same tavern. I was tired, and it seemed as though my head had hardly touched the pillow when the fire bell rang and somebody pounded on my door and shouted that the building was afire. I hustled out, threw on some clothes and rushed down the hall to the speaker's room. I rushed into his chamber and was astonished to find him calmly brushing his teeth. Then he put on his coat and sat down in a chair and began to read the paper of the day before. Meantime the firemen were at work on that part of the hotel, but Mr. Cannon lay down on the bed and left me to watch. We got out of town without being scorched, but I haven't discovered yet why the speaker should select a time of fire to use his toothbrush."—Chicago Evening Post.

"I RUSHED INTO HIS CHAMBER."

Forgot His Incog.

Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse university was discussing at a dinner his recent edict against theater going and the use of tobacco by students holding scholarships.

"Scholarships," said Chancellor Day, "are for poor students, and he who smokes and visits the theaters may be poor, but he is not living up to the part. It is not wise to travel incognito. To do so," he continued, "is often associated with something disgraceful. Witness the story of the tramp who at a magistrate's early morning hearing did not answer to his name, sitting absently in his seat as the name was shouted four or five times. When matters finally righted themselves, the magistrate said angrily:

"'Why didn't you answer to your name?'

"'Beg pardon, yer honor, but I forgot wot name I guv last night,' replied the tramp.

"'What?' thundered the magistrate. 'Didn't you give your right name?'

"'No, yer honor,' said the tramp. 'I'm a-travelin' incog.'"

A WEST POINT STORY

ODD INCIDENT THAT MADE GENERAL BUELL BREAK A RECORD.

A Flagrant Breach of Discipline That Was Grotesque Enough to Make the General Who Never Laughed Roar In Spite of His Grimness.

General Buell, whose timely arrival at Shiloh, some military critics hold, saved General Grant from defeat, was known in the old army as "the man who can't laugh." General Buell was not grave merely; he was grim. Yet two yearling cadets at West Point made General Buell break a record.

It was hot on the plateau above the waters of the Hudson, hotter than the cheek of a fieldpiece that has been in action, so hot that the leaves on the elm tree shriveled and the feet of the pacing sentries burned from contact with the only paved path on the government reservation.

The plebes had reported and were quartered in two divisions of barracks, the upper class men having been turned out to share quarters with their comrades in the other divisions.

The June examinations were on. The board of visitors, of which General Buell was a member, had paid its perfunctory visits to mess hall, to academic building and to barracks. It was 10 o'clock in the morning. Two cadets had been thrown by fate and by the arrival of the plebes into the same room of the fifth division of barracks. The thermometer in the shade of the guardhouse registered 99 degress. In the room in which the two cadets were quartered doubtless it stood 10 degrees higher.

There had been one morning inspection of quarters by an army officer, and the two yearlings, gasping for breath in a room into which the sun beat with no regard for cadet feelings, had every reason to believe that there would be no further inspections that morning. They had stood the ordeal of the examinging board at 9 o'clock, and, with no studies in hand, they thought they were safe until the first call for dinner.

By the law of the academy every cadet in quarters was to be in full dress uniform until 11 o'clock. He was not allowed to smoke. His bedding was to be neatly piled at the head of his bunk. In other words, the cadet room and the cadet's person were to be properly ordered and properly arrayed for inspection.

"It's hot," said the cadet who was to become an artillery officer.

"It's hotter than that," said his comrade.

"Let's strip," said the one.

"Done," said the other.

And forthwith they stripped. Then the mattresses were pulled from the bunks and thrown under the window, through which occasionally came a whiff of breeze, grateful though heat laden.

"I'd like to smoke," said the future artilleryman as he threw himself on one of the mattresses.

"I'm going to smoke," said his comrade.

And instanter pipes were lighted, and the room began filling with fragrant blue fog.

There was a clink of a sword heard in the hallway. Its sound brought consternation. An inspection was on. Before the two yearlings had time to think there was a rap, and the door was thrown open and in came, not the ordinary second lieutenant inspecting officer, but Lieutenant Colonel Henry M. Lazelle, commandant of cadets, and Major General Don Carlos Buell, United States army.

Discipline strikes in. The two culprit cadets sprang to attention instantly, heels together, arms hanging naturally and the little fingers where the seams of the trousers would have been if they'd had any trousers on.

The future artilleryman was clothed in one sock, and in this attire he was one sock the better of his comrade. They stood there rigid. The position of a soldier was never better maintained. Commandant Lazelle turned purple with rage at this graceless breach of discipline actually paraded before a major general of the United States army and a member of the board of visitors.

The cadet who one day was to command a battery had dropped his pipe. The hot bowl touched his great toe, and the burning was too much for even a soldier's stolidity, and he emitted a very boylike "Ouch!"

General Don Carlos Buell took in the spectacle and all the glorious humor of the situation. His grimness was not proof against such a sight as this. He leaned back against a table and roared, and not even the wrath in the commandant's face could check his roaring.

"Come, general," said the commandant; "let us go. I shall report these young men for three flagrant violations of the rules of the academy."

General Buell looked at the guilty ones and roared again. The commandant led the way out of the room, but the culprits heard the laugh of Buell all the way through the hall, across the area of barracks, until finally it came as a sort of chuckling echo from the office of the guardhouse.

The culprits were confronted with the probability of about three months' confinement to quarters and about fifty tours of extra guard duty as a result of their disregard for discipline. They were in the depths for twenty-four hours, and then the list of the day's delinquents was read, and, lo, their names did not appear!

General Don Carlos Buell had had the laugh of his lifetime, and because of the joy of it he had asked the commandant to spare the offenders.—Chicago Post.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Height of Conceit.

After Governor Stokes of New Jersey had signed the "barber act," a bill that is calculated to prevent the future watering of stock, a Trenton statesman said to him:

"So-and-so, the millionaire, was sure you wouldn't sign this act. He is a conceited chap. He believes that his way of thinking is always the right way."

"He is conceited, truly," said the governor, smiling. "He reminds me of another conceited man I used to know.

"Two mutual friends sat near this man at lunch one day.

"'What makes him look so glum this morning?' said the first.

"'Why,' said the other, 'he visited an Egyptian palmist last night, and the fellow told him his wife would marry twice and the second husband would be a remarkably fine chap.'

"'Aha! He thinks that's rather a reflection on himself, eh?'

"'Not at all. He thinks his wife was married before and never told him.'"

Variable Indian Voter.

"No party can safely count on the vote of the Indian. The smallest thing can change his view," said John N. Florer of Bartlesville, I. T., one of the oldest Indian traders in the territory.

"Some years ago the Osage Indians were called into council. The Democrats prepared a feast for them. They barbecued beef and fed the Indians well. And the Indians were 'for' the Democrats. Then the Republicans invited them to a barbecue, and they were 'for' the Republicans. After it was all over the Indians met. One of them addressed the meeting.

"'Democrat good; feed Indian,' he said. 'Republican good; feed Indian full.'

"Then he concluded, 'Both good; Indian go home.'

"And they went. They don't care for any political party."—Kansas City Star.

The Snowdrop.

In the northern United States the snowdrop is the only garden flower that we can count on year after year as the earliest sign of spring. Its pendulous white blossoms, with "heart shaped seal of green" sung by Rossetti, often appear before the last snow has gone. Luckily, even city families need not be without snowdrops, for they have been known to thrive in narrow passageways between tall houses. Most bulbous plants like the baking hot sun of midsummer in order to ripen their bulbs, but the snowdrop thrives best in partial shade. It blooms earlier if it has a chance at the March sun, but is one of the very few that will flower regularly, though less freely, in dense shade and with a northern exposure.—Country Life In America.

Receding Gums.

"The best remedy I know for receding gums," says a dental surgeon, "is to saturate soda or bicarbonate of soda, used freely as a wash and also in massaging the gums. The soda solution is soothing to the irritated flesh and is also strengthening. In massaging rub the gums with a rotary motion from the roots downward so that any pus that might have formed between the teeth and the gums will be forced out, for if left around the roots the foreign matter will decay and may eat into them and ruin the teeth."

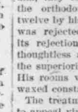

Power In Anonymity.

The genuine journalist, the man of experience and weight, has always an objection to signing his name to an article. He knows that to sign his name is to lessen the weight of his opinion. The man who signs his article ceases to be the voice of truth and judgment and becomes an individual author.—London Academy.

Every one is bound to bear patiently the results of his own example.—Phaedrus.

SAVED MY LIFE

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

MESMER'S METHODS.

He Influenced Patients by Suggestion, but Hid Real Power.

Mesmer published in 1773 his account of the marvelous cures effected by what he was pleased to term animal magnetism.' When in 1778 he came to Paris he came with a well developed sense of the value of advertising. The campaign he inaugurated was of a character to disgust the conservative and thoughtful, but to take a sensation loving populace by storm. Most extravagant tales of cures he had accomplished in Berlin, Vienna and elsewhere were noised abroad. Through a convert he challenged the physicians of Paris to enter into a contest with him, they to treat twelve patients by the orthodox methods, he to treat twelve by his. Of course this challenge was rejected, and equally of course its rejection was interpreted by the thoughtless as an acknowledgment of the superiority of Mesmer's treatment. His rooms were thronged. His purse waxed constantly heavier.

The treatment he gave was such as to appeal vividly to the imagination of the patient—in a word, to increase his suggestibility. Suggestion, indeed, was its root element, although Mesmer failed or pretended to fail to recognize this and taught that its efficacy depended upon the effluence of a mysterious fluid. In a room dimly lighted and hung with mirrors the patients were seated about a circular vat of considerable size covered with a lid and containing various chemicals. A long cord connected the patients with one another, while in the lid of the tub were several holes, through each of which passed an iron rod bent in such a way that its point could be applied to any part of a patient's body. The patients were requested not to speak, the only sound in the room being strains of soft music. When expectancy was at its flood Mesmer would enter clad in the robe of a magician and carrying an iron wand. At one patient he would gaze intently, and another he would stroke gently with his wand. Soon some would burst into laughter, others into tears, while still others would fall into convulsions, finally passing into a lethargic state, out of which, it is claimed, they emerged cured or on the highroad to a cure. Occasionally the treatment was given outdoors, a tree being "magnetized" and the patient collapsing in a swoon so soon as he approached it.—Appleton's Magazine.

"American Accent" Taught.

According to an English periodical, the head master of a certain English "popular school" insists that his scholars shall "learn to speak English with the American accent and in the American style." We don't know exactly what the American style and accent are, but in the opinion of this head master, if he exists, they have a distinct money and business value. If a man has them persons who hear him talk will think that he is "an American and consequently enormously rich" and do much for him. "Do" him much it might be more correct to say. On the other hand, if they know that he is an Englishman, yet they will assume from his accent and style that he has been in America and, therefore, is "shrewd, energetic and resourceful" and "far more experienced, intelligent and reasonable" than if he had had his business training in England. In short, boys that want to "get on" will acquire the American tongue. This is very ingenious and has a certain basis of sense, but American speaking Englishmen will find that their hotel bills will be mighty large and long.—Everybody's Magazine.

Humor of the American Soldier.

There is a sense of humor in the American soldier which finds characteristic expression in the following letter on the evil of desertion which appears in the Manila Cable News over the signature "T. Willie Rockingham, Private, Company K, Second U. S. infantry." "Pay the soldier at the following rates: Privates, $50; corporals, $75; sergeants, $100; first sergeants, $125; battalion and regimental noncommissioned staff officers, $200 per month. Furnish all noncommissioned officers quarters; the higher the grade the better the quarters. Feed all troops on the a la carte plan, meals at all hours. No calls or drills to stand except muster and pay call. Muchachos to do all guards, fatigues, kitchen, police and menial work. Furnish high class amusements, like grand opera, etc., at Uncle Sam's expense. Then have a stipulation that in case of war the men will all be discharged and a new army hired. Then if a man is caught deserting hang him."—Army and Navy Journal.

Where Sunday Is Monday.

Manila is one of the most important ports in the Philippine Islands, but, strange to say, is one day behind all other places of its size in the world. This curious fact is accounted for in this way: Although the Philippine Islands lie near the Asiatic coast, they were discovered by Spaniards who sailed from America. When they crossed the magic line where Sunday changes into Monday these fiery dons of proud Castilian ancestors did not revise their calendar. When told of this years later and informed that their mode of reckoning time was not up to modern notions, they merely said that was so much the worse for modern notions. Anyhow, the fact remains that these islanders keep plodding along one day behind the rest of the world, which reckons time by new style.

The attention of farmers, tobacco growers, stock raisers and investors is being directed to WASHINGTON OUNT FARMS for several reasons:

THEIR CHEAPNESS

Washington county farms have always sold low in comparison with those of surrounding counties. This fact the public is gradually realizing and there is a steady buying demand and a consequent advance in values. Instances are by no means rare of farms in this county doubling in value during the past five years.

ACCESSIBILITY

The excellent turnpike roads throughout the county which lead to the various stations along the Louisville & Nashville railroad afford the farmers of the county easy facilities for shipping their produce and their live stock to the markets and there is hardly a point in the county that is not within easy access of a railroad station or a good store.

THEIR FERTILITY

There are few sections of the country that produces a great variety of profitable crops and more abundantly than does Washington county. It has become one of the foremost producers of Burley tobacco, it being no uncommon thing to have land that has been bought for $60 per acre to grow a tobacco which will realize for the owner $100 per acre in one season Corn, wheat, oats and other small grains grow in abundance and it is the natural home of the blue grass, clover and other grasses which grow and afford abundant pasturage for stock of all kinds.

SOCIETY, SCHOOLS, ETC.

In selecting a home one of the first considerations of a man of family is the question of churches, schools and congenial associates for the members of his family. Washington county is well provided with churches of all denominations, her public free schools are of the best and her people are of a high social standard.
